

ARE FIGHTING AT YULA RIVER

Correspondents Are Not Yet Able to Send Descriptions of the Battles.

TRAVELS OVER MOUNTAIN PASSES

Japanese General Reaches a Good Position To Outflank the Russians, Despite the Enormous Difficulties.

Paris, April 23.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg states that the Japanese losses in the reported engagement at the Yalu river numbered seven thousand. The information was contained in private dispatches from Port Arthur which it is said confirmed the rumor that a battle had taken place.

London, April 23.—Rumors of severe fighting on the Yalu are repeated in various forms and from various points. For instance, the Shanghai correspondent of the Morning Post says he hears that the first Japanese army had crossed the Yalu almost without opposition, and the Daily Chronicle's correspondent at Seoul says that heavy fighting has occurred, but that for strategic reasons it is impossible to send particulars.

No authentic news, however, has reached London showing that anything has happened beyond skirmishing.

Japanese Overcome Difficulties.
According to the Daily Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent the Russian strategists are reluctantly arriving at the conviction that Gen. Kuroki is engaged in the adventurous plan of advancing along the middle reaches of the Yalu river, via Kang-Gu, and despite enormous difficulties is moving his army over the mountain paths, his purpose being to outflank the Russian position on the right bank of the Yalu.

London, April 23.—A dispatch to the Central News from Port Arthur says a Jap. column has been received there of the complete destruction of a Japanese column on the Yalu river.

MERELY A JOKE. NOTHING MORE

Incident at Chadbourne Hall, Madison, Is So Viewed by the Senior Girls.

[Special to The Gazette.]
Madison, April 23.—A prank at Chadbourne hall, the dormitory of the university women has been enlarged in transmission to the metropolitan press until exaggerated offensively. The story that a young woman was hazed and hung up in the attic of the hall is indignantly denied by those who are in a position to know the facts, as the following communication will show:

To the Editor:—
The young women at Chadbourne hall greatly regret the reports in the current newspapers regarding an occurrence at that institution last week whereby an innocent joke has been exaggerated into a mighty tale of woe. The young woman referred to entered into the joke with the spirit of the fun. The utmost indignation is felt over the statement in a Chicago paper that Miss Menzies participated in the fun and then told on the other girls. Nothing was told as all that could be told was patent on the face of it. The whole performance was permeated by the element of fun. The relations between the preceptress and students have been on a friendly basis and no hint of lack of harmony has been given until suggested by the articles in the papers.

UNCLE SAM IS IN CHARGE NOW

Panama Canal Has Been Sold—The French Company Sign All the Papers.

LEGAL DELIVERY IS TO BE MADE

Attorney Will Formally Turn Over All Property on the Isthmus to the Agent of the United States Government.

Paris, April 23.—The contract by which the ownership of the Panama canal passes to the United States has been signed, sealed and delivered. The title to the canal route is now vested in the government of the United States.

The document by which this transaction was consummated bears the signatures of President Bo and Director Richman of the Panama Canal Company, who signed for the company as its responsible officials.

The transfer of title was accomplished quietly and unexpectedly, as the public had been given to understand that the contract would not be executed until after the meeting of the stockholders of the canal company.

Payable After Delivery.
"The property will shortly be delivered on the isthmus and upon that being done the purchase price will be immediately paid."
"The United States got an unincumbered title."
The main figures in the transfer have been Messrs. Bo and Richman, for the company; Messrs. J. Day and Russell for the United States, and Consul General John K. Gowdy and Roberto Lewis for the United States and Panama respectively, the two consular representatives joining in affixing the seals and attesting the signatures.

ANOTHER BLOW TO PEANUT POLITICS

State Treasury Agents Appointed for Their Political Pull Are In Trouble.

[Special to The Gazette.]
Madison, Wis., April 23.—State Treasury Agents Eli Pederson, and Joseph Greenwood, after a series of three battles in court, have been held for damages for the wrongful seizure of the personal property of Thurlow Burritt, in the attempt to collect a peddler's license fee of $50. This decision of the circuit court is far reaching in effect, by reason of its interpretation of the law. The court holds that an agent representing a foreign firm, taking orders by samples which orders he sends to the firm outside of the state of Wisconsin, the goods for which are sent to the agent afterwards to be delivered, does not constitute that agent a peddler within the meaning of the law. To do so the court holds would be contrary to the federal interstate commerce act. While the damages recovered for the property taken are small, $13.50, the case has been bitterly contested by the state authorities and the decision is the first of its kind upon this act of the legislature. District Attorney F. L. Gilbert represented the state and Attorney J. E. Messerschmidt appeared for the agent.

The decision is a rebuke to the treasury agent, who, it is alleged by various citizens in this part of the state, gives more of his time to administration practical politics than to the duties of his office. From his failure in this case it would appear that he has not informed himself adequately upon the laws which presumably Governor La Follette appointed him to enforce. Mr. Pederson is the chairman of the La Follette Democratic county republican committee and largely planned the recent caucus campaign. It is known that he was appointed more for political ability than as being familiar and capable in the application of the laws of his department.

FIND HUSBAND KILLED HIS WIFE

Strange Ending for an Iowa Murder Case—Daughter the Detective.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.]
Des Moines, April 23.—Charles W. Graves was this morning found guilty of murder in the first degree and a life sentence was pronounced for the murder of his wife. The conviction was due to the efforts of Winifred Reader, an actress and daughter of the murdered woman, who procured evidence after the detectives pronounced the death as accidental. The woman died of strangulation and her body was burned.

Above halftone from latest cable dispatches and photographs of vessels engaged shows the terrible bombardment of the forts and the attempt made by the Russians under Admiral Makaroff to repulse the superior Japanese fleet. The Japanese are now before Port Arthur with the largest fleet assembled since hostilities began. The interest in the war which has lagged during the last few weeks is now at fever heat again due to Makaroff's death and the continued bombardment while the recovery of the Petropavlovsk and attempts to raise her and the big naval funeral which will be accorded the late admiral will focus interest on these highly important happenings at the theatre of war.

GOVERNOR CARRIED GRANT

What the Conservative Element at Madison Count On—Their Figures Are Given.

One out of three counties which held caucuses yesterday gave their delegates to the La Follette column and this one only after heroic efforts had been used. Oconto, formerly evenly divided between La Follette and the conservative element, went solidly for the conservatives and Langlade, the former home of the La Follette movement, did not give the governor's supporters even a hint that he was running for renomination. Grant county with twenty-three delegates, however, went for the administration.

COULD NOT FIX UP THE DIFFERENCES

Kilpatrick of Madison Could Not Explain Matters to Beloit College.
Coach C. H. Kilpatrick went down to Beloit last evening as soon as the communication from Philip Wallace severing athletic relations with Madison had been received by the authorities at the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Kilpatrick's visit was for the purpose of securing a fuller statement of the Beloit grievances and to arrange, if possible, a settlement of the controversy.
As two members of the Beloit board of control were out of the city, nothing came of the conference and the coach returned to Madison. He gave Coach Hollister and the other members of the athletic body the impression that the university was ready to do the fair thing. But it is not likely that any settlement will be made this year as the Beloit players feel that they have been imposed upon and that nothing can be done now can right matters.
The game Friday was not called off because of the wet weather, but on account of the wet weather.

TWO MEN NEARLY DROWNED FRIDAY
Line City Oarsmen Had a Narrow Escape From a Watery Death.
Clinging to their overturned boat and swept by the terrific current down through the network of piling under the buildings on the east side of the Central bridge in Beloit, Henry Dorrbacker and William Drake had a narrow escape from drowning Friday morning. Drake managed to grasp the piling and hold on until rescued and Dorrbacker clung to the boat and landed upon at the North-Western railway bridge.
The two men went out on the river in the rear of Dorrbacker's place to fish and had been on the water but a few minutes when the current caught the boat broadside and shot it with its human freight under the river platform at a Kinsley shops. This platform is very low and in dodging the flabbers, the boat was upset and the men found themselves in an extremely dangerous position. Both managed to catch the overturned boat and hung on as they were swept rapidly under the single Carpenter building. Here they were torn loose from the boat by the current as it boiled among the piles and Drake managed to grasp and hold on to a timber and was later rescued.
The contact with the piles which swept the men off also righted the boat and Dorrbacker, who had been in front, again caught hold and had an exciting battle with the current until he had passed into the open below. Then he was able to climb in and although there were no oars, he freed himself with a mackintosh he was wearing and felt more prepared for any struggle which might be necessary to make a landing below. But the current swept the boat near the shore as it neared the North-Western railroad bridge and he waded out and pulled the boat with him.
A great crowd was attracted in a few minutes as the word was yelled about that two men were in the river under the bridge and there were scores of hands ready to give aid if it had been necessary to put a boat out for rescue. Neither of the men were hurt.

LOCAL DEALERS BUY OLD GOODS

VERY LITTLE BUSINESS IN LEAF CIRCLES.

TWO MORE WAREHOUSES OPEN

Buyers Are Rejecting a Large Portion of the New Crop, and Pay Little for That Accepted.

For some years past the farmers in certain portions of Wisconsin have been devoting nearly all their attention to the growing of tobacco, not in small patches of one, two and three acres, but in areas of from five to thirty acres. Of course, they could not give such large quantities the careful attention tobacco requires, and that along with bad weather and other drawbacks, has hammered down the prices this year until the profits have become almost invisible. The result has been that they are lending their ears to the persuasions of the beet sugar manufacturers, and will probably raise less tobacco this season and turn their attention to sugar beets. They should not forget that if tobacco packers are rejecting such a large portion of the 1903 crop, and pay so little for that which they do accept, the fault is in the tobacco itself, and not in the business itself. The fact is, there never was a better demand for really desirable cigar tobacco than at this very moment.

THE FIRE-STRICKEN CITY NOW ARISES

Herewith are presented pictures of the section of the city of Toronto visited by the terrible fire which sent $12,000,000 worth of property up in smoke. The ruins represent the scene at the corner of Wellington and Bay streets where the fire was fiercest. The picture at the top is the Queens hotel which was scorched by flames. The picture on the lower left is the city hall which narrowly escaped destruction. The Queens hotel is declared to be the most notable hostility of its size in North America and is patronized by royalty and the wealthy classes. Toronto is a city of a quarter of a million people and one of the most progressive in Canada.

COULD NOT FIX UP THE DIFFERENCES

Kilpatrick of Madison Could Not Explain Matters to Beloit College.

Coach C. H. Kilpatrick went down to Beloit last evening as soon as the communication from Philip Wallace severing athletic relations with Madison had been received by the authorities at the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Kilpatrick's visit was for the purpose of securing a fuller statement of the Beloit grievances and to arrange, if possible, a settlement of the controversy.

As two members of the Beloit board of control were out of the city, nothing came of the conference and the coach returned to Madison. He gave Coach Hollister and the other members of the athletic body the impression that the university was ready to do the fair thing. But it is not likely that any settlement will be made this year as the Beloit players feel that they have been imposed upon and that nothing can be done now can right matters.

The game Friday was not called off because of the wet weather, but on account of the wet weather.

Mrs. George Sibley, McClure, Ohio, R. F. D. No. 1, says: "I was so nervous and broken down that I could not do my work. I doctored with two of our home doctors, and they said I had heart trouble. I had sweated and sweated. I would beat so hard and then I would faint away. I received a sample bottle of Zoa Flora, which I took according to directions, and thought it was just what I needed, so I threw the doctor's medicine away and got away with Zoa Flora. It helped me so much that I bought two more bottles, and now I am well and strong. I do not have the spells with my heart when I took Zoa Flora and I am regular now, when before I took Zoa Flora I was very irregular and had severe pain at monthly periods. I have found it to be truly a 'Woman's Friend.'"

"If anyone calls in person or writes to me, I will give them the particulars in my case. I hope this will help induce some suffering woman to try Zoa Flora."

Whiskey and Beer Habit

PERMANENTLY CURED BY

"ORRINE,"

ABSOLUTELY SAFE, SURE AND HARMLESS.

Physicians pronounce drunkenness a disease of the nervous system, creating a morbid craving for a stimulant. Continued indulgence in whiskey, beer or wine eats away the stomach lining and stupifies the digestive organs, thus destroying the digestion and ruining the health. No "will power" can heal the inflamed stomach membranes.

"ORRINE" permanently removes the craving for liquor by acting directly on the affected nerves, restoring the stomach and digestive organs to normal conditions, improving the appetite and restoring the health. Can be given secretly if desired.

Cure Effectuated or Money Refunded.

Ask your druggist whom you know what he thinks of ORRINE; he will endorse our statements as truthful in every respect. If ORRINE fails to cure we will refund you every penny paid for it as cheerfully as we took it.

No Sanitarium Treatment or Publicity!

No Absence from home or loss of time! Mothers, wives and sisters, you cannot cure those who are afflicted with this most terrible of all diseases by your fervent prayers, or eyes red with tears, nor by your hope that they may stop drinking. It can be done only with ORRINE. You have the remedy—will you use it? If you desire to cure without the knowledge of the patient, buy ORRINE No. 1; if the patient desires to be cured of his own free will, buy ORRINE No. 2. Full directions found in each package. Price $1 per box.

We will gladly furnish a treatment free of cost to any physician to demonstrate that ORRINE is a positive specific for drunkenness.

GAMBLING WITH FATE

"Give us your proofs," said Darrel, shortly.

"Dr. Payton," continued the young man, "you know how hard I have worked to clear Darrel's name during the last month because I felt sure of his innocence. I did not go to you with what I had discovered because I was waiting to find this man McCloud."

"On the night Sturgis was murdered, McCloud was in that private room, there, with Murgatroyd. Murgatroyd had been very late in getting back from the hills and he had found a letter from Darrel that made him savage and desperate. He looked out of the street window and saw Darrel returning to Hawkhill's after having gone with me to the hotel."

"Telling McCloud to remain where he was, Murgatroyd rushed out of the room, but did not take his revolver with him. Don't forget that point, gentlemen. Strange as it may seem to you, Murgatroyd was so excited he did not take his revolver."

"McCloud picked up the weapon and stepped to the open window. He leaned out, and down the street, in the glare of light from the dance-hall opposite, he saw Darrel confronted by Sturgis. He raised the revolver, slightly, and fired. Then he rushed away, pushing the weapon into his pocket; rushed out through this very room, I'm telling you, and failed to see Jim Glenn who was standing here, a foot from the door leading into that other room. Isn't that so, Glenn?"

Lennyard appealed to the sallow-faced clerk who was leaning against the wall picking nervously at the sleeve of his coat.

"That's so," said Jim Glenn, "but it will cost me my job, and maybe a whole lot of trouble besides, when the old man hears what I've told."

Merrick hitched his chair alongside of Darrel's and the doctor turned a piercing look on the clerk.

"Why did you keep this information to yourself, Glenn?" he demanded.

"Don't you know that it caused us to fix the crime on an innocent man? It drove him to his death, that is just what it did. Why didn't you come to me, or to Mr. Merrick, and tell of this?"

"The old man gave me $100 to keep my mouth shut."

"Ah!" cried the doctor; "and why did he do that?"

"Because he wanted Darrel hung."

"Accessory after the fact!" exclaimed Payton triumphantly. "It means the penitentiary, anyhow."

"That's what," assented the marshal. "Blamed tough on Darrel, though. I reckon I'd better put these on you, McCloud."

Merrick drew a pair of handcuffs from his pocket and leaned toward Darrel. At that juncture a faint rattling was heard from the vault.

"What's that?" came in startled tones from Payton as every eye was turned on the vault door.

"It's Murgatroyd," said Darrel. "It's getting close in there and he must want to get out."

"How long has he been in there?" queried Glenn.

"Ever since the doctor and the marshal came."

"It's a wonder he ain't smothered to death!" exclaimed the marshal.

"He plays in too much luck for that," returned Darrel grimly. "In our struggle here in the room we knocked over that cabinet of minerals and that piece of galena fell on Murgatroyd's head. The safe happened to be open and I hauled him into it, closed the doors and turned off the combination. I heard you gentlemen coming, you know, and thought it might be some of Murgatroyd's friends. "I didn't want the fellow to get away until the marshal had a chance at him. I may have been wrong in some of my surmises, but Mr. Lennyard has made it plain that Murgatroyd will have to share in the punishment even as he has shared in the taking off of poor Sturgis. Don't put those on me just yet, Merrick. I'm unarmed and you can sit close. I can't escape. Open the vault, Jim Glenn, you know the combination, don't you?"

"Yes," "Dr. Payton," pursued Darrel as Glenn moved to the vault door and began rattling the knob, "you and Lennyard stand ready to catch Murgatroyd as he comes out. Have a care, for he is armed. He has probably heard nothing of our conversation out here. Brick and mortar and two thick-lenses of steel would prevent that."

The marshal put his arm through Darrel's and Payton and Lennyard ranged themselves close to the vault door when Glenn swung it open. As the knob of the inner doors were turned, Murgatroyd came charging out, revolver in hand.

He was caught by Payton, Lennyard and Glenn and, for a space, struggled furiously but fruitlessly, dazed by resistance and blinded by the light. "Hands off!" he shouted, quietly a little when he saw the uselessness of his efforts. "Let me at that man! I'll kill him!"

"No, you won't!" cried Merrick. "I've got charge of this man, Murgatroyd, and there'll be no gun-play. Take the weapon away from him, Doc."

The weapon was wrenched from Murgatroyd's clutch. "Is that you, Merrick?" asked Murgatroyd, ceasing all attempts to get away and brushing a hand across his eyes.

"Big as life," answered the marshal. "How is it that you and all these others are here?"

"We heard the row and rushed up to see what was going on."

"You came in time, Merrick, Nate Darrel wasn't killed by that explosion!"

"Hey?" "I say," declared Murgatroyd, "that Nate Darrel wasn't killed by that explosion on the War Eagle trail. Take charge of him, for there he sits beside you. He's not McCloud but has shaved off his beard and is masquerading in McCloud's clothes. I know McCloud and I know Darrel, and I swear to you that that man is Darrel!"

The marshal, too far gone for words, dropped back in his chair.

CHAPTER XVIII.

DARREL'S DOUBT.

A bomb, suddenly exploded in the midst of those in the office, could not have caused greater consternation than the furious words of Murgatroyd. The case had been proved against Murgatroyd, then shifted to McCloud, and now McCloud was said to be Darrel and Darrel was known to be innocent.

Merrick, as soon as he had recovered himself a little, gave vent to a hollow groan. Lennyard stared at Darrel like one in a trance.

"Gentlemen," said Darrel, who was the first to speak, "if Mr. Merrick will put the irons on Murgatroyd, we will make him prove what he says."

Merrick would not leave Darrel's side, but tossed the handcuffs to Glenn. "Snap 'em onto him, Glenn," said he. "I'll stay right here until we can get head and tail to this Chinese puzzle. Different things have been happening so quick that I'm blamed if I know whether I'm afoot or horseback. Murgatroyd wasn't killed at all; and if he was, here's Doc and me left yet. I'm expecting some one to blow in and prove that we did it."

In some trepidation, Jim Glenn snapped the bracelets about his employer's wrists. Murgatroyd was then seated near the light and Merrick handed one of his revolvers to Lennyard.

"Get close to him," said the marshal, "and if he makes a move to bolt, shoot him."

Like one in a dream Lennyard took the revolver and placed himself at Murgatroyd's side. Murgatroyd was deeply perplexed. Darrel himself seemed to be the only one in the office who had kept his head.

"You say I am Nate Darrel, Murgatroyd," said he. "How can you prove it?"

"Hold up your left hand," said Murgatroyd, "there, in the lights."

Darrel did so.

"Anyone who knows Darrel," went on Murgatroyd, "will know that ring. There isn't another like it in the United States."

"It's—It's Darrel's ring," gasped Lennyard. "I saw it that night in Hawkhill's when Darrel played that game for me."

He took a half-step towards Darrel, his face bloodless and his eyes bright. "Watch your man, Lennyard," said the marshal gruffly.

"Keep back, Roy," said Dr. Payton. "This man may be McCloud, after all. The testimony of the ring is not sufficient. It may have been stolen."

"Then," said Darrel calmly, "let me shield McCloud's reputation to the extent of saying the ring was not stolen. It is, perhaps, the only ring of its kind in the United States, and it has not been out of my possession during the last six years."

ANOTHER MOVE BY WILLIAM HEARST

Files Formal Complaint Against the Anthracite Mine Owners in His Suit.

(Special by Scripps-Metlae.) Washington, April 23.—William R. Hearst today filed with the attorney general a formal bill of complaint against the anthracite coal roads and the mining companies, charging them with violation of the anti-trust law, and praying the United States to take action to restrain further violations.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

New York capitalists have offered Moscow a loan, to be issued at 93.

The European Economist of Paris says that Russia is negotiating with the principal French banks for a loan of $150,000,000 on 5 per cent four-year treasury bonds, to be placed at 98.

Two suspected Japanese have been arrested on the railroad near Volozda, in northeastern Russia, 302 miles from Moscow, with plans in their possession of Archangel and the famous monastery on the island of Solovetky, in the White sea.

Floating mines have been seen off Suan-Tung promontory in the much-used railway followed by vessels bound to and from Shanghai and Chefoo and Tien Tsin and other northern ports. This is extremely dangerous to shipping and probably will cause an increase in marine insurance.

William Davidson, Chief of Police Davidson of Sherbrooke, Que., is reported missing in Manchuria. Mr. Davidson has been in Port Arthur since 1898 as agent of the American Trading company and Clarkson & Co. His parents have heard nothing from him since the war began and it was believed that he had remained in Port Arthur.

Satisfaction is expressed by the Chinese who are friendly to Russia because of the firm policy of General Kuropatkin. At the time of his arrival at Liao-Yang General Kuropatkin informed a Chinese deputation which waited upon him and asked for protection that he would accord it provided absolute obedience was shown to his orders by the Chinese authorities and people. In order that no doubt may exist regarding the matter General Kuropatkin has repeated this statement.

E. Von Hesse-Wartegg, German commissioner to the St. Louis exposition, arrived in New York on the steamer Graf Waldersee. Among the other passengers was J. Meese, the chess master.

President Roosevelt has been informed that Postmaster General Payne's health is much improved. He expects to resume his duties in the postoffice department upon his arrival in Washington in about ten days.

Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by Miss Carey, Miss Ethel Roosevelt and Masters Theodore, Jr., and Kermit Roosevelt, occupied the pre-ideal box at the New National theatre last night, witnessing Mrs. Clara Woodruff's performance of the Clyde Fitch comedy, "The Girl With the Green Eyes."

BELOIT PRISONER BEGGS FOR POISON

After Being Apprehended for Wandering Aimlessly Among the Tall Buildings—Brought Here.

John Suckie was the name given by a man who was apprehended while wandering aimlessly about Beloit's streets Thursday evening. People must have some definite purpose in life in Beloit. Otherwise the minions of the law will nab them. When John had been in jail a short time he asked for a little arsenic or lead. That seemed to be his feelings towards the city. When his request was refused he begged for Paris green or any old poison that might be available. The police kept a close watch on him and yesterday he was brought to the county jail and placed in the care of Sheriff Appleby. He should better not be too handy about asking for poison here. He may get it.

LAND SALE IS OPEN VERY SOON

President Signs Bill Making Rosebud Agency Land Open to Settlement.

(Special by Scripps-Metlae.) San Francisco, Cal., April 23.—T. A. Baldwin, a famous aeronaut, made a successful ascension this morning in Greth's dirigible airship, rising to a height of fifteen hundred feet. After he was in the air ten minutes the engine stopped and he was unable to start it. The balloon then drifted out of sight.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN SPEAKS TONIGHT

Is in Chicago to Roast Parker and the New York Platform As Much As Possible.

(Special by Scripps-Metlae.) Chicago, April 23.—W. J. Bryan arrived this morning and spent the early part of the day receiving men prominent in the democratic party. A general reception will be tendered him this evening previous to his speech at the Princess Rink. In an interview he indicated he would denounce Parker as representing the interests opposed to the masses. He says he will denounce the New York platform as a model of ambiguity and dishonest concealment. He said he would not endorse any individual candidate, but gave expressions of sentiment similar to those of Hearst and gave Hearst credit for the coal trust decision. Bryan paid for the hall, $250, with his own check and refused any assistance from the local organization.

STATE NOTES

Mayor Gault of Beloit has notified the police that he expects them to enforce the laws against gambling and to suppress the slot machines.

Mrs. Petrine Bochnke, a widow, 78 years old, was found dead in her home at Racine. The coroner found money secreted in a dozen different places and recovered $71. The woman was supposed to be quite wealthy. The First State bank of Brillion has been organized with a capital of $25,000. E. Decker, Sr., was named president, W. V. McMullen vice, president, and H. J. Wunderlich, cashier. The new concern will absorb the present Citizens' bank.

Charles Westphal and Mrs. Alice Woods both claiming to reside at Belvidere, Ill., have been arrested at Kenosha on a serious charge, the complaint being sworn out by Mrs. Westphal. Both are in jail pending the arrival of friends with bail money.

NEWS OF THE CHICAGO MARKETS

Interesting Gossip Concerning the Closing Reports of the Windy City's Mart.

Wheat.—Liquidation set in wheat at the opening and there was a bad break with May selling down to 85 1/2¢ before the decline was checked. July followed and lost over a cent. There were several small rallies during the day but July wheat continued to come out and the close was nearly a cent lower.

Corn opened lower with wheat and on further liquidations by commission houses. Valentine took July. Brosseau was buyer. Cudahy brokers took corn. There was a moderate rally from bottom. There continues a rather free offering of corn.

Oats.—There was a break in oats early with the wheat and a very general demand from shorts. Price sold off 3/4 to 1/2 but recovered most of it and September recovered all its decline and more. Cash oats were a little lower. Private houses turned out 7 cars standard.

Provisions.—There was a firm provision market with a little yielding early with the grains but with a rally later carried the list back to a little over Friday's close. There was buying of lard by Gress and buying of pork by Spencer. Close was strong. THE HADDEN-RODGE CO.
